
NEW FROM FROSTLINE WINTER 2008

Wall and Ellipse in electro polished stainless steel

The latest addition of outdoor water taps for installation in walls is FROSTLINE® Wall in electro polished stainless steel.

The frost proof tap is more than just a tapping device for water to the garden, as design and functionality in general for this range of products has been taken into account compared to other existing products in the market. And despite its beautiful and delicate appearance, the tap is maintenance-free as it is not to oil or otherwise to treat. Just wash with a soap solution when the surface has lost its shiny surface and needs to be freshened up.

Electro polishing provides a beautiful radiant surface.

As an added bonus, the treatment provides a metallic clean surface, which is superb when it comes to resistance to corrosion – an electro polishing is simply the ideal surface for stainless steel!

The product is recommended for mounting in areas with a high environmental impact including installation near coastal areas because haze in relation to unpolished stainless steel often will cause rust stains.

Accessories to the Wall water tap is the Ellipse hose bracket and a quick coupling manufactured in the same robust and weather-resistant surface.
